COMMON GROUND

There are many times in our lives when we realize that the differences among us are real. We must also realize that beyond these differences lie a common ground, a place where we can see the common connections we have to our school, our families, our work, and most importantly each others' lives.

This book has ultimately become a common ground between the people that have worked on it. All of you awaiting this publication, especially the class of 1990, know of the complications and confusion over this book. Reasons why people come in contact with anything in their lives, or lose contact with things in their lives vary, and this is no exception. Throughout this Common Ground, as in anything, there is a uniqueness that comes with the different influences people have brought to their part of this book. There is a lot about this that is unique, and there is a lot about people which is unique. It is important to recognize those differences which separate us, but more important is to see through that to the Common Ground which finally brings us all together. The book is now as complete as we hope your years here were, and its base is the same as yours, Common Ground. Congratulations Class of 1990!

To the Members of the Class of '90:

This yearbook will serve in many ways as one of the most tangible remembrances of your days at Manhattanville. Pictures of events, classmates, professors will evoke memories for years to come, and I think that is wonderful. My hope is that your fondest and deepest memories of Manhattanville will be of those moments, those incidents that no camera recorded, those moments during which you grew and developed in ways that only you truly know and understand. If we have succeeded in really educating you, the values you express and give evidence of in your daily life will be the true reflection of your days in this community.

I offer you my personal best wishes for a life of joy and peace, for a career whatever it may be that will be personally meaningful and, most of all, a continued belief in the value and dignity of each human being. I am grateful for the opportunity you gave me to come to know so many of you.

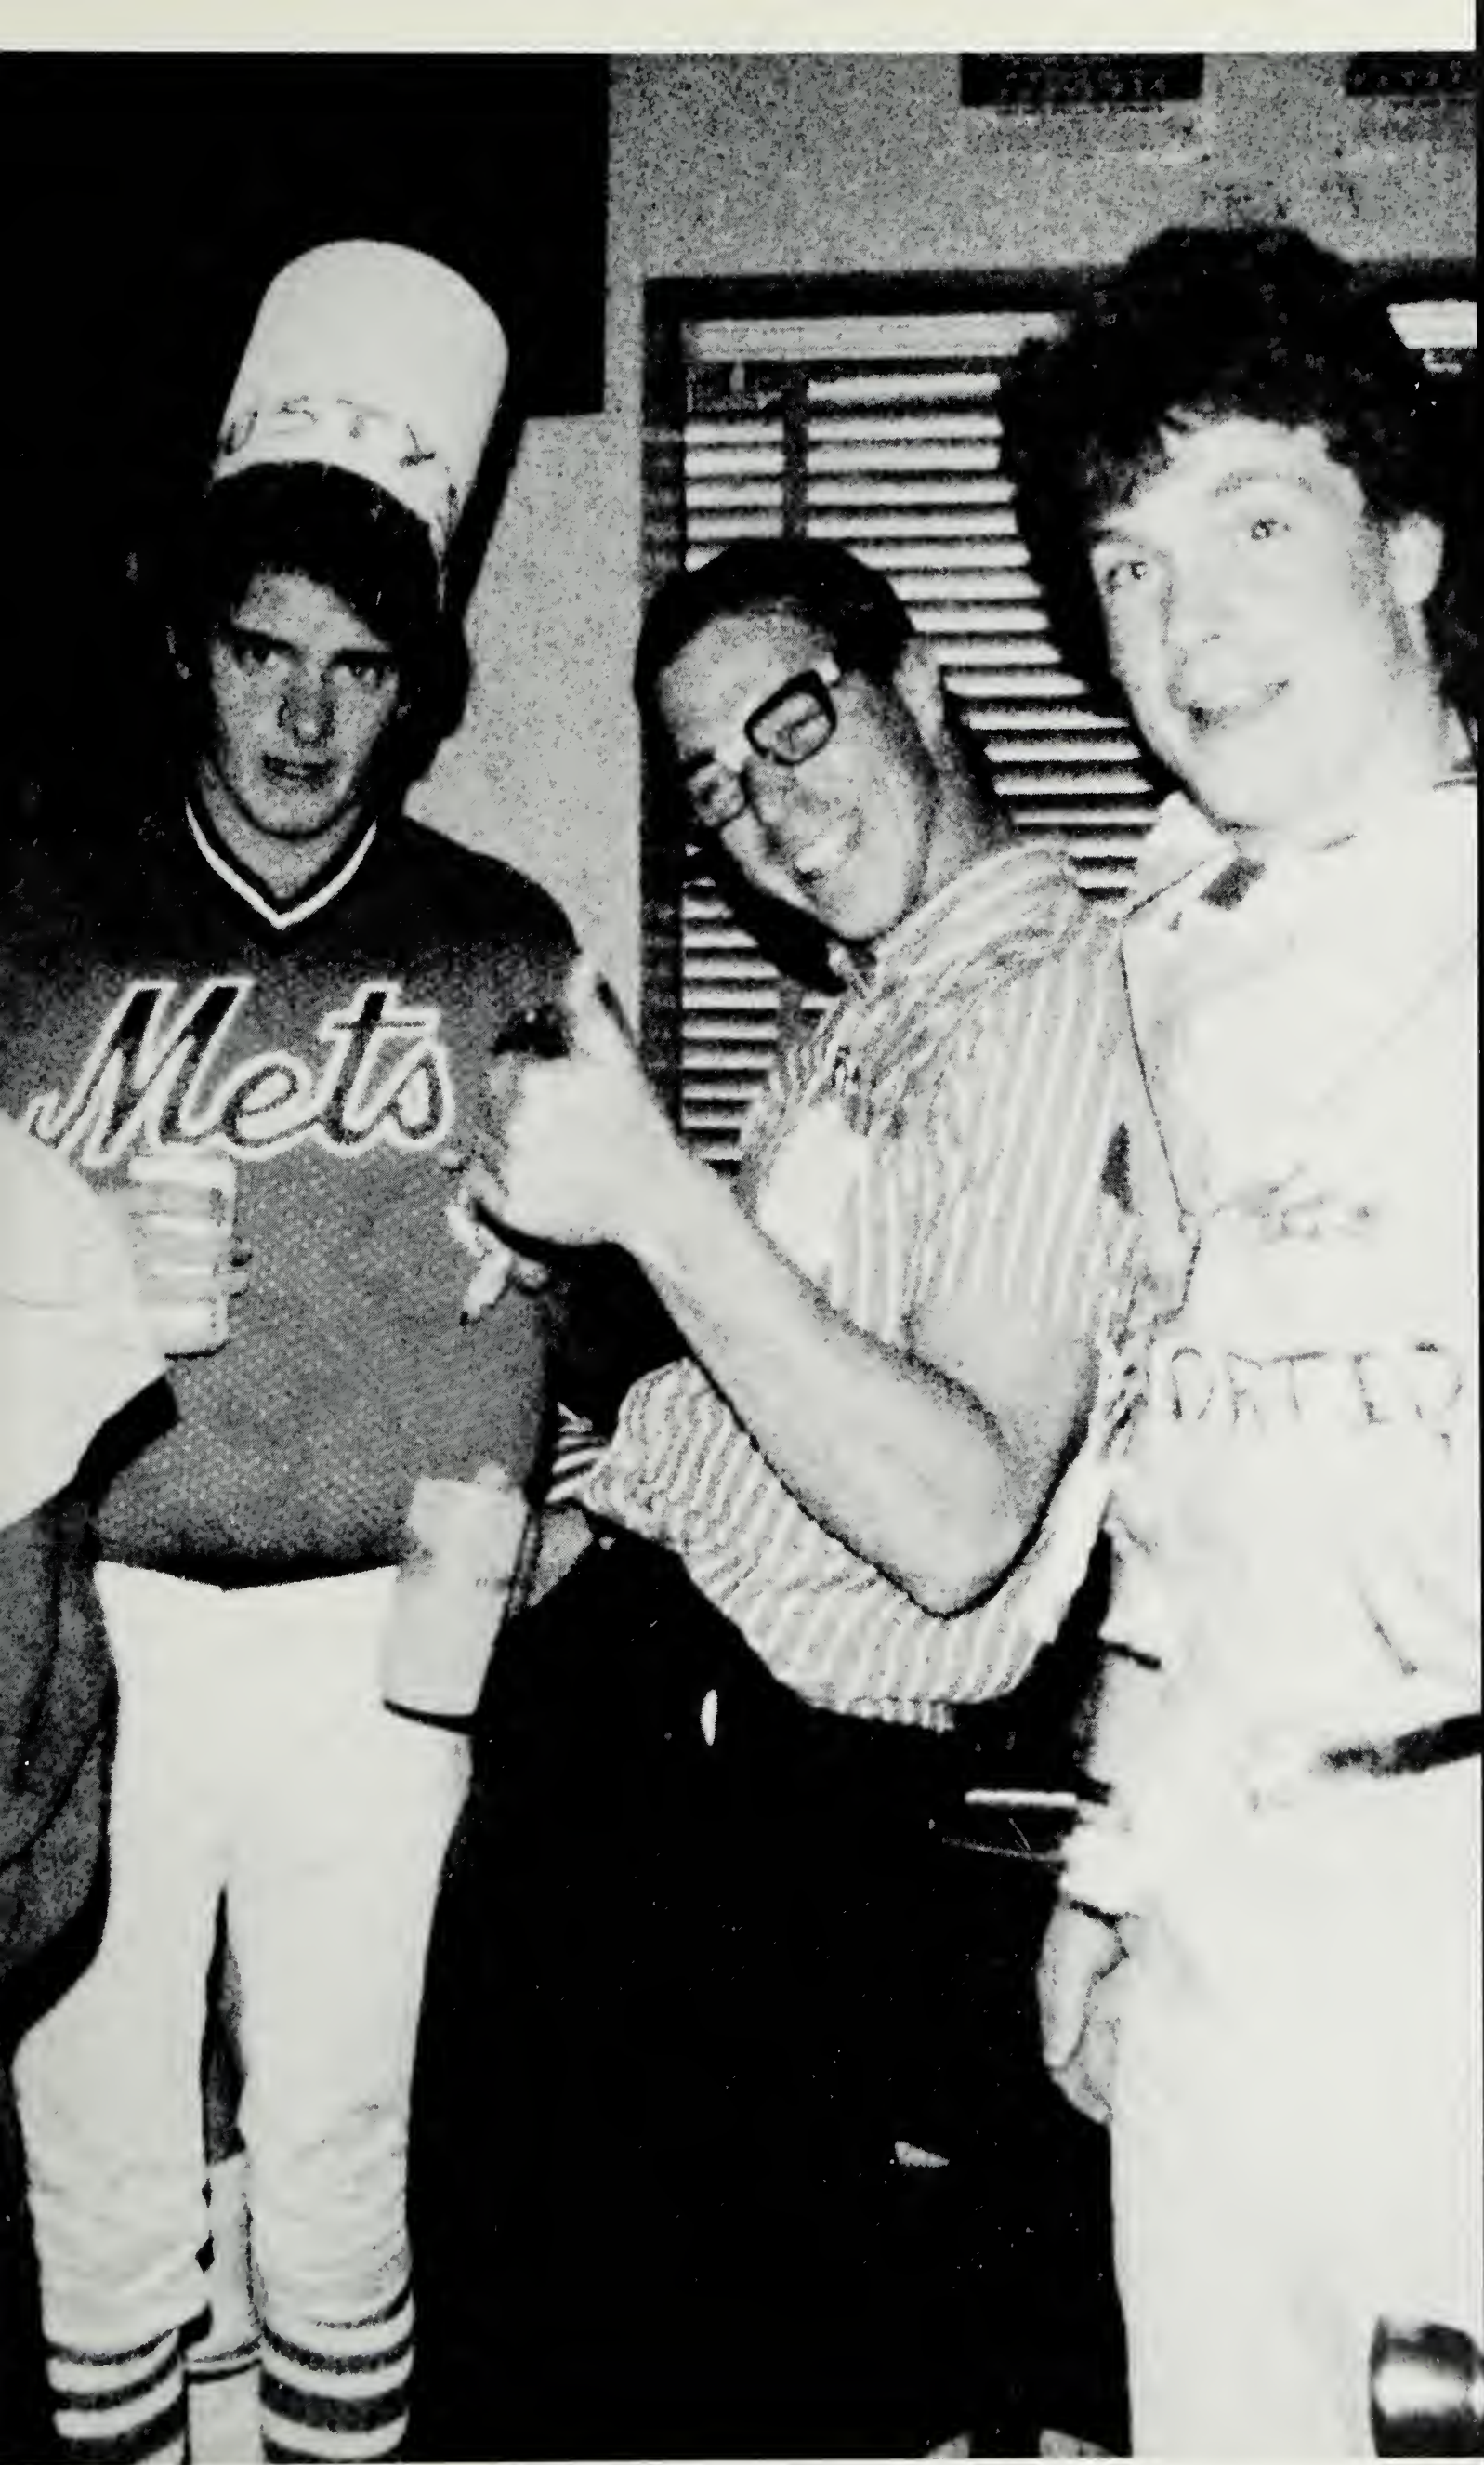

With affection,

Marcia A. Savage
President

STUDENT LIFE

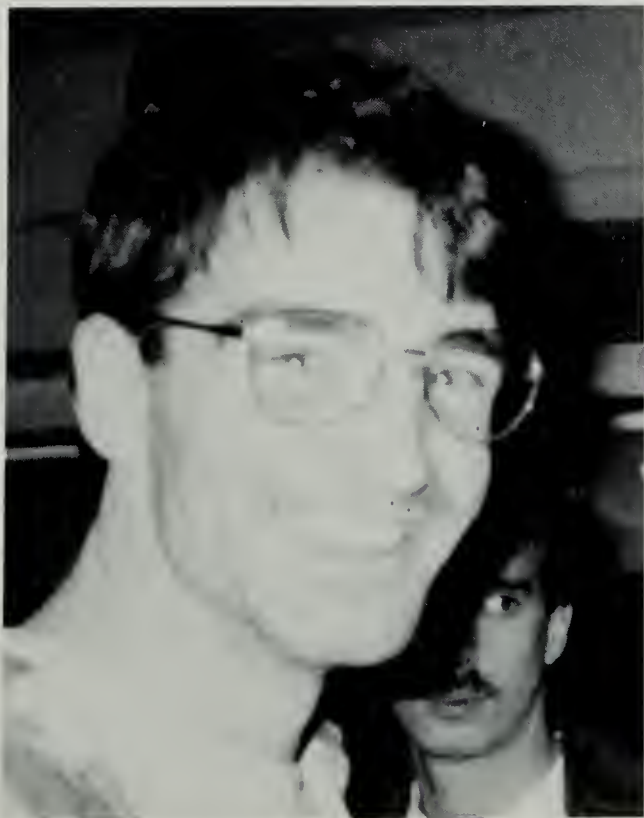

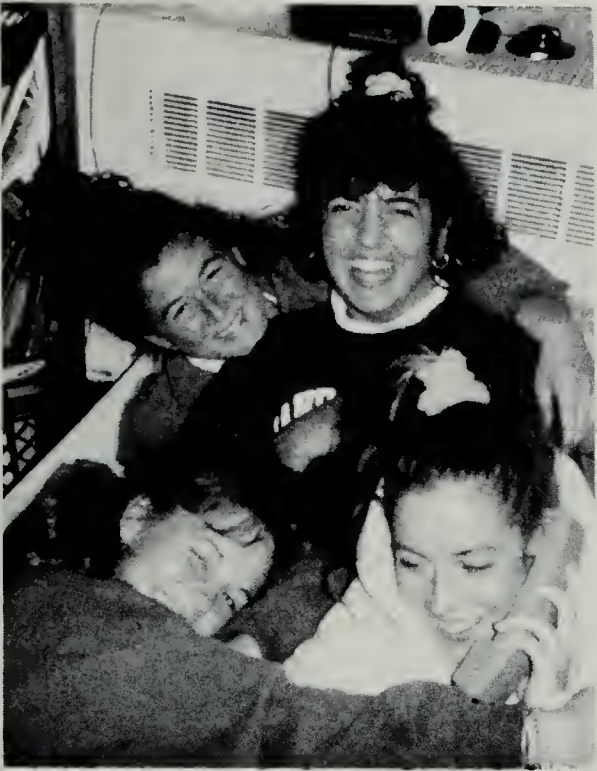

It's a White Castle, it'll fit!!

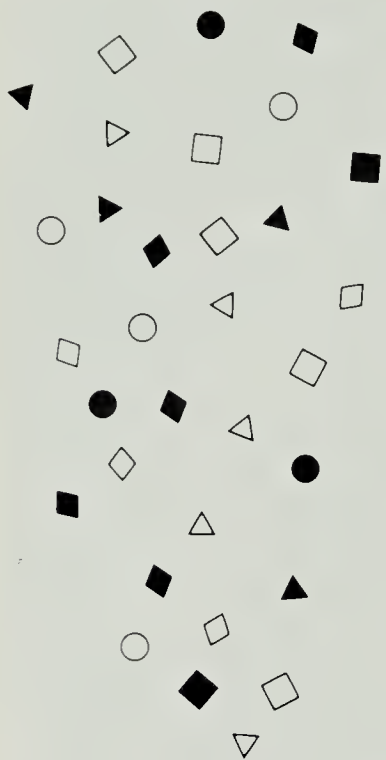

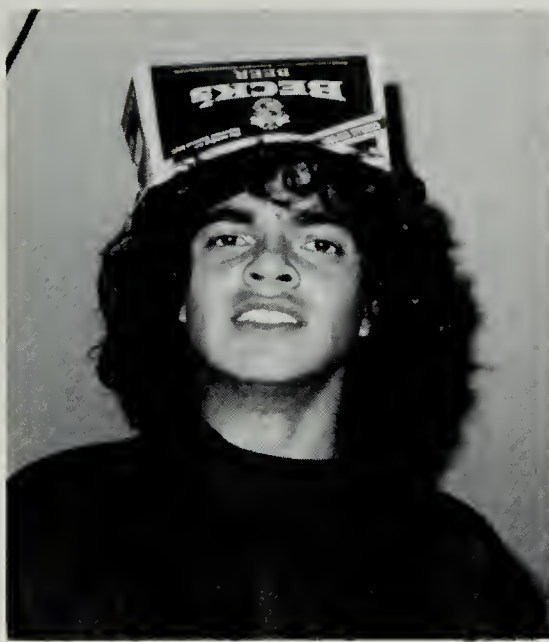

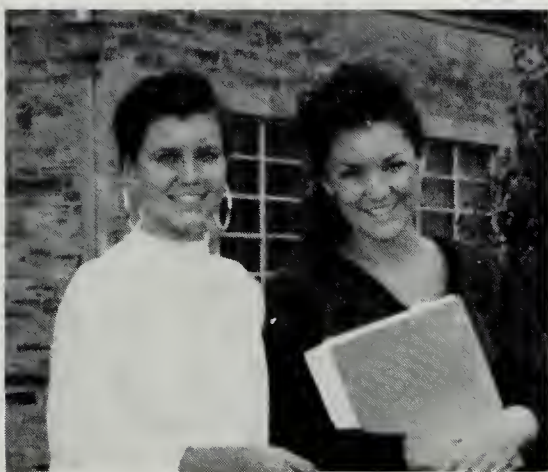

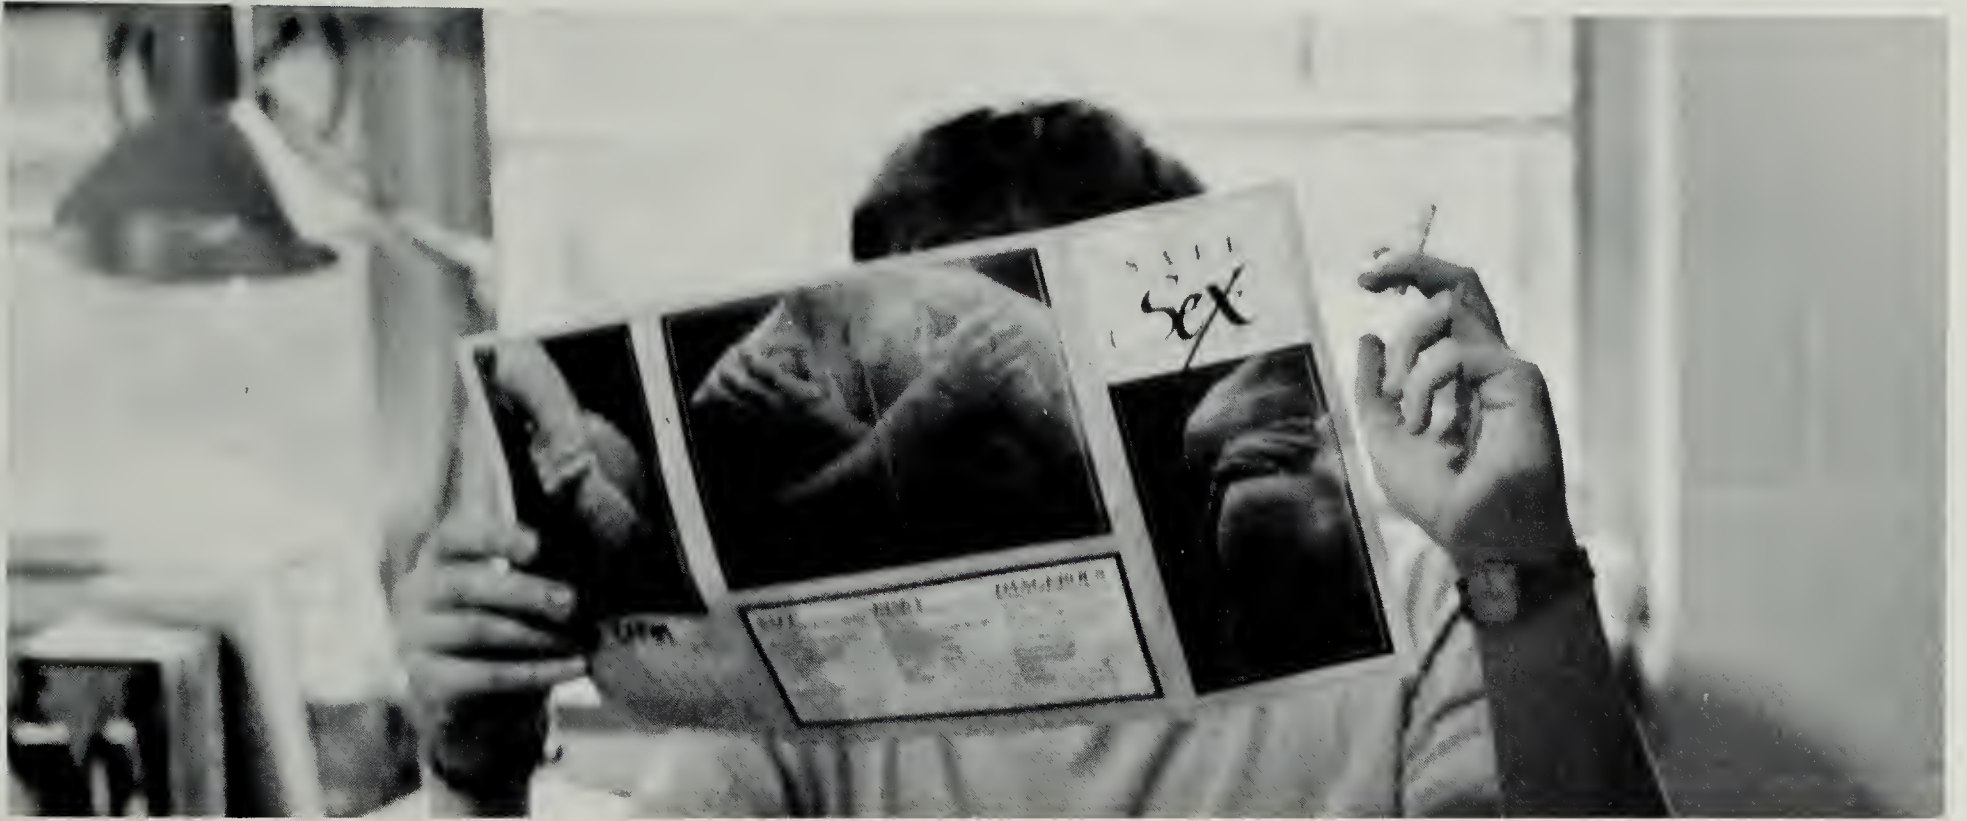

Your place or mine, love muffin?

A little to the left . . . Gotcha All!!

Ooohh! Who's that hunk in the next frame?

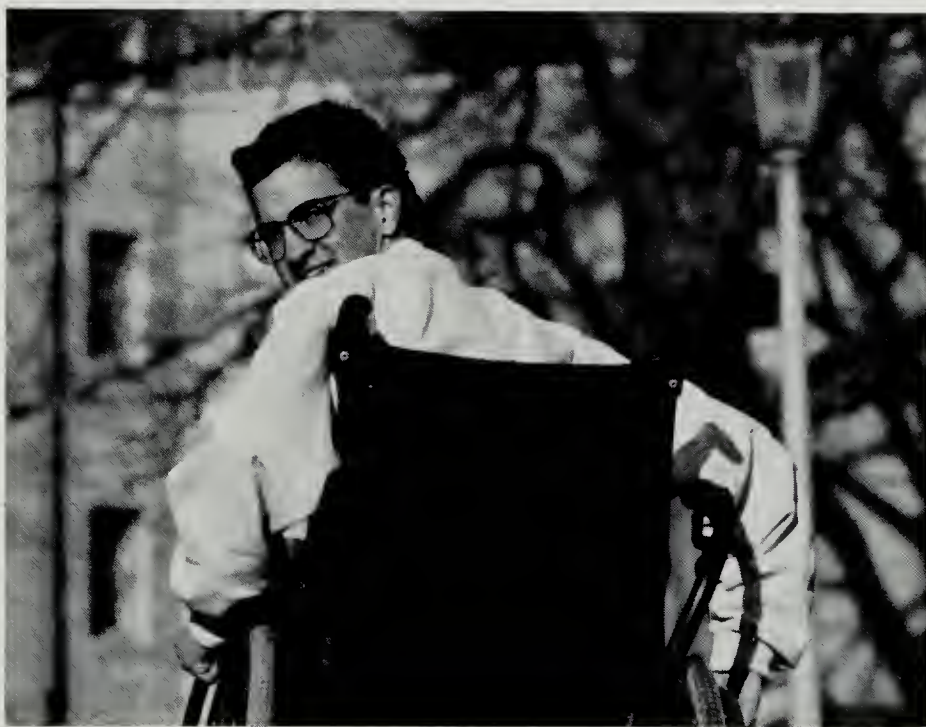

Just me Col, looking simply smashing!

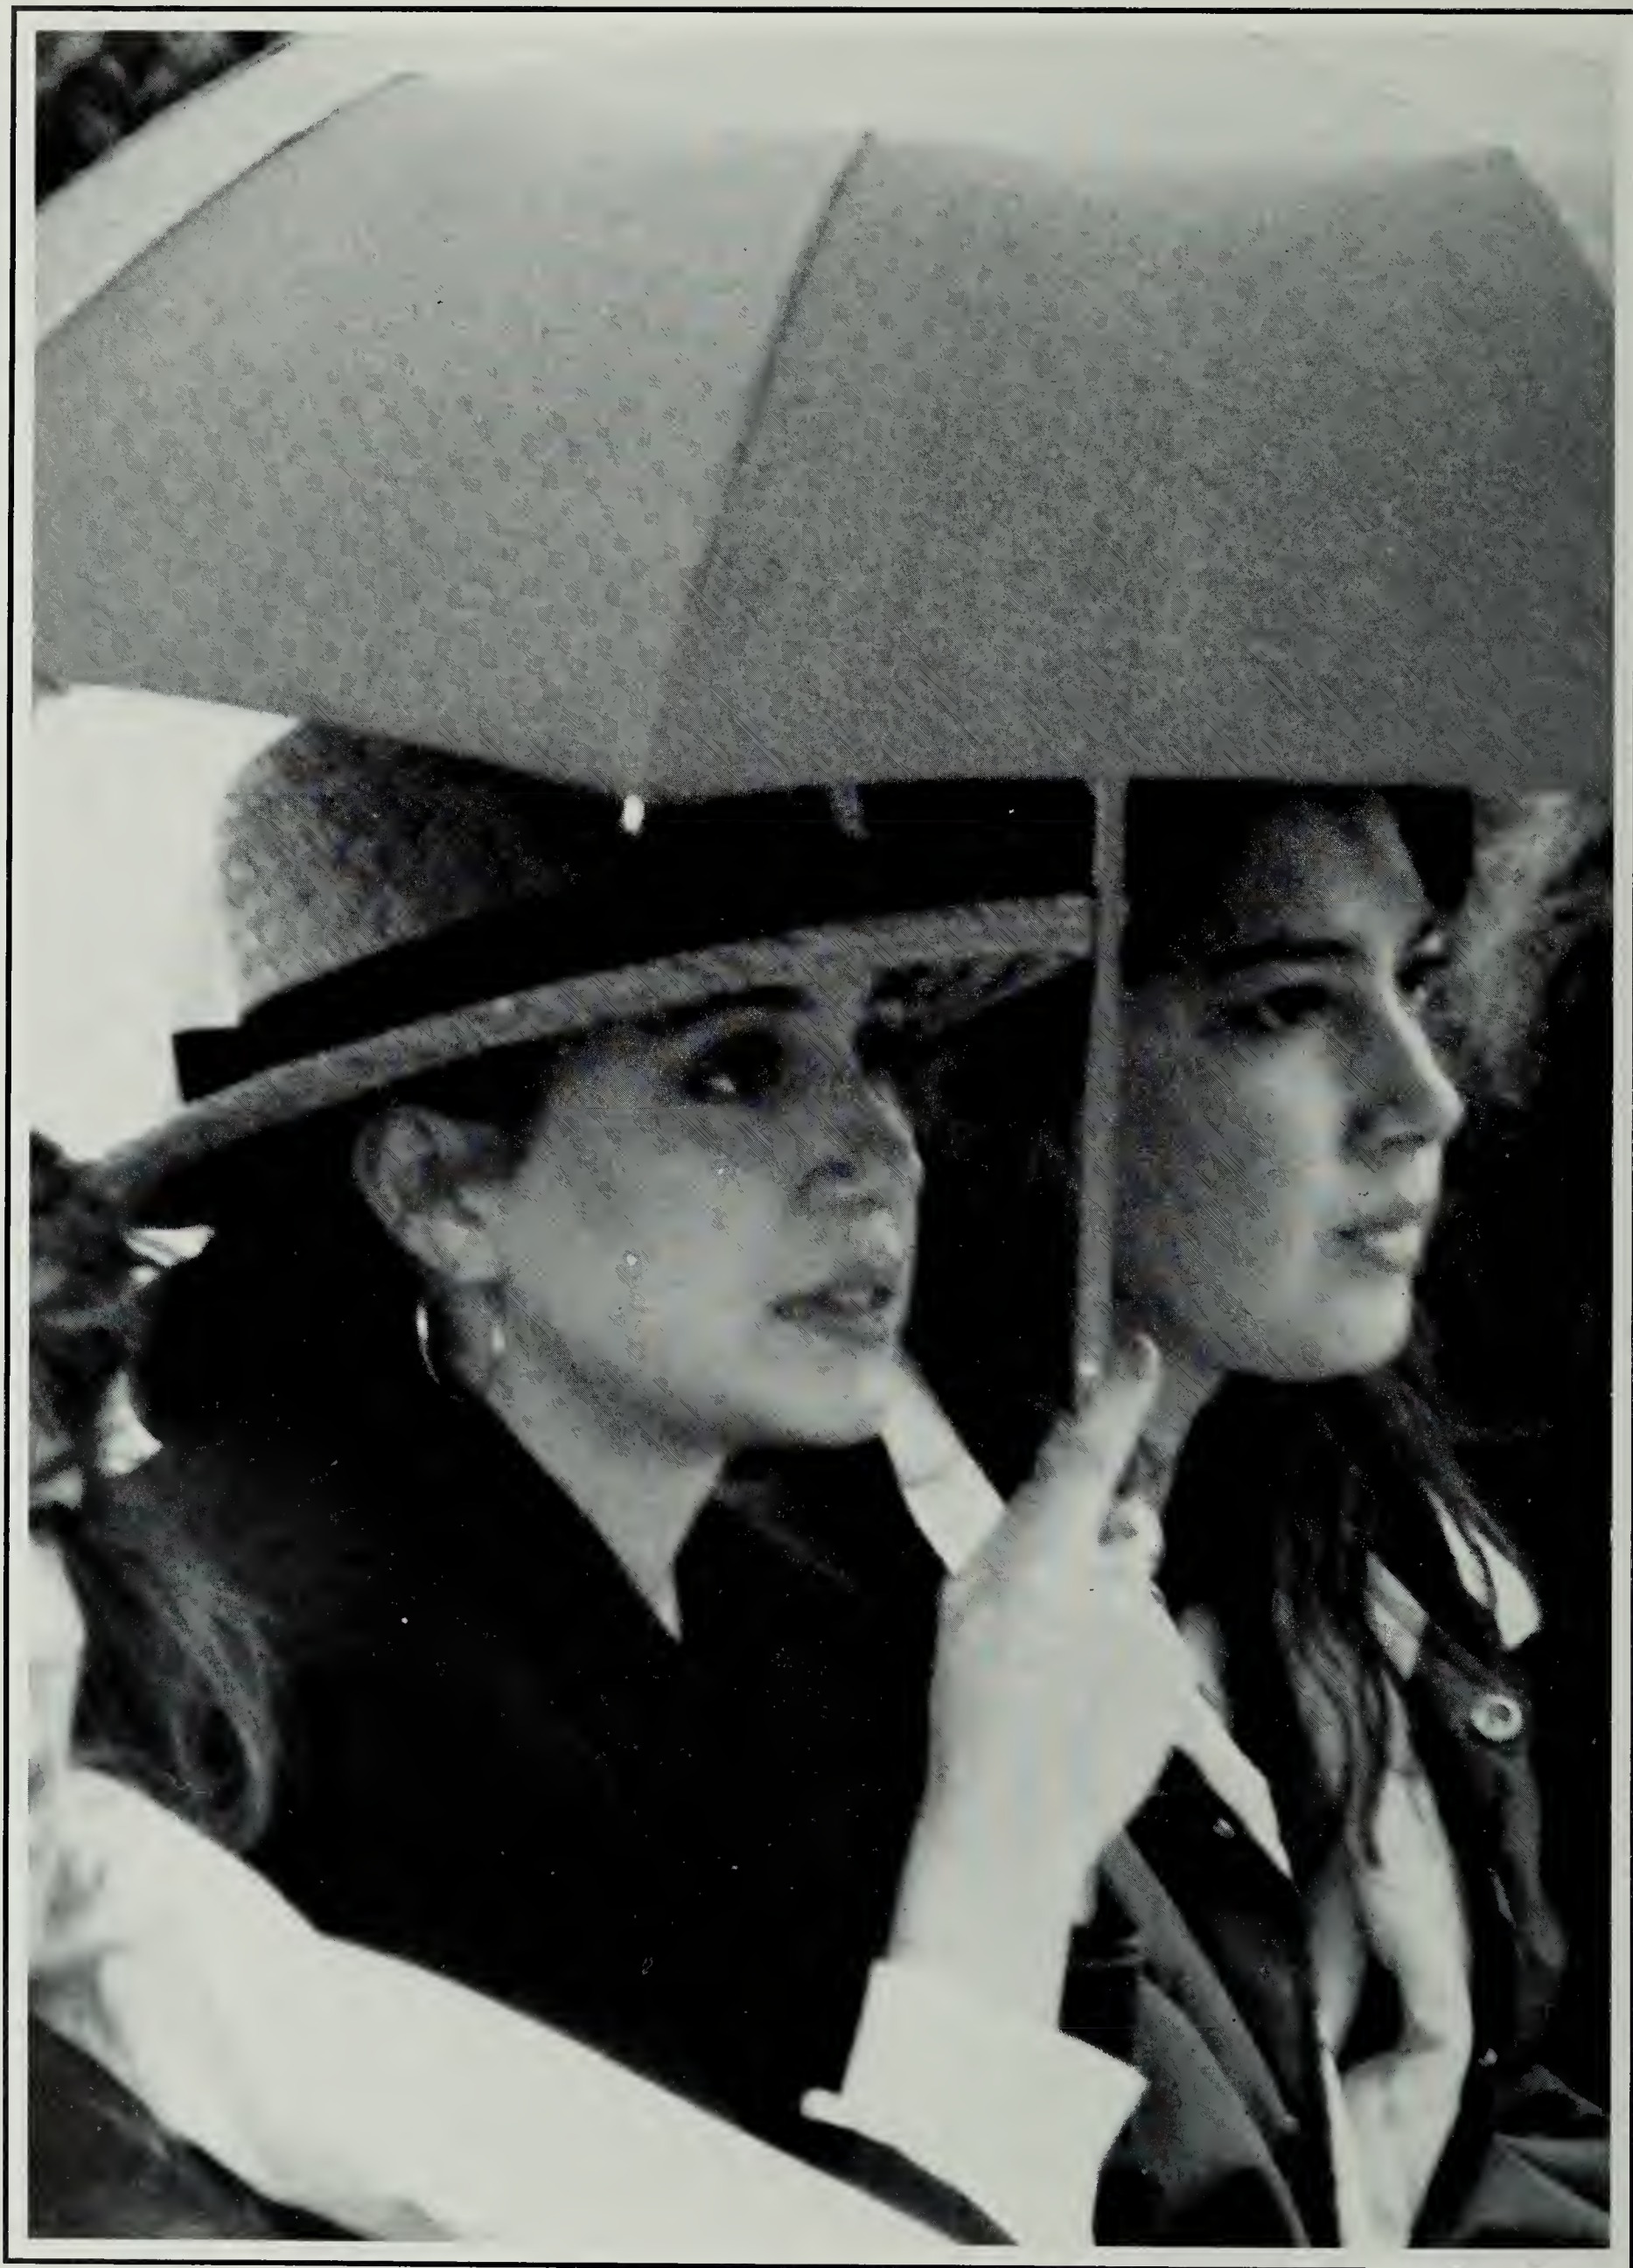

“Experience Reality. Live. Learn. Accept.” Handicap Awareness Day 1990 A three-part program in which students, faculty and administrators learned and experienced the physical challenges that a disabled person encounters everyday. The day began with a panel discussion, with panelists with various disabilities. The audience learned about the physical obstacles and challenges through life experiences and stories that were shared by the panelists. Later on the Quad, the students, faculty and administrators were given the opportunity to experience being handicapped through the use of crutches, canes, or wheelchairs. The event gave participants new perspectives about challenges others face and helped all to Live, Learn, and Accept.

Our Junior Class is one that has set a prime example of the word unity. We began as freshmen and, like most, were together by force, not by choice. As time passed we grew together. We entered suite life sophomore year with a positive outlook and managed to pull through successfully. We have found that stereotypes mean nothing, we have transcended this idea and have learned to enjoy each other for each of our individual qualities. Some a little more extravagant than others, but we call ourselves a class nonetheless.

It's amusing to look back and to laugh at our freshman year. And now, we can think back onto our sophomore year and how much we've changed. I can't decide whether our junior year has brought time to a standstill, or whether it hurdled by. Either way, it has had a strong effect on all of us.

It's frightening to think that in one short year, we will be graduating and beginning another new life that, perhaps, will fly by as quickly as our college career. It is something we will always remember and as soon as it has passed, we will wish we could have held on to it forever. — Christy Mazzalupo.

"Certain things they should stay the way they are. You ought to be able to stick them in one of those big glass cases — just leave them alone." — J.D. Salinger.

Terrence and friends — Feeling just fine, what with the 3 to 1 ratio and all?
Jeff — The Walk of Life.

Erin and Minoli attempt to get a new perspective.

Shelley Jackson — What a long, strange trip it's been.

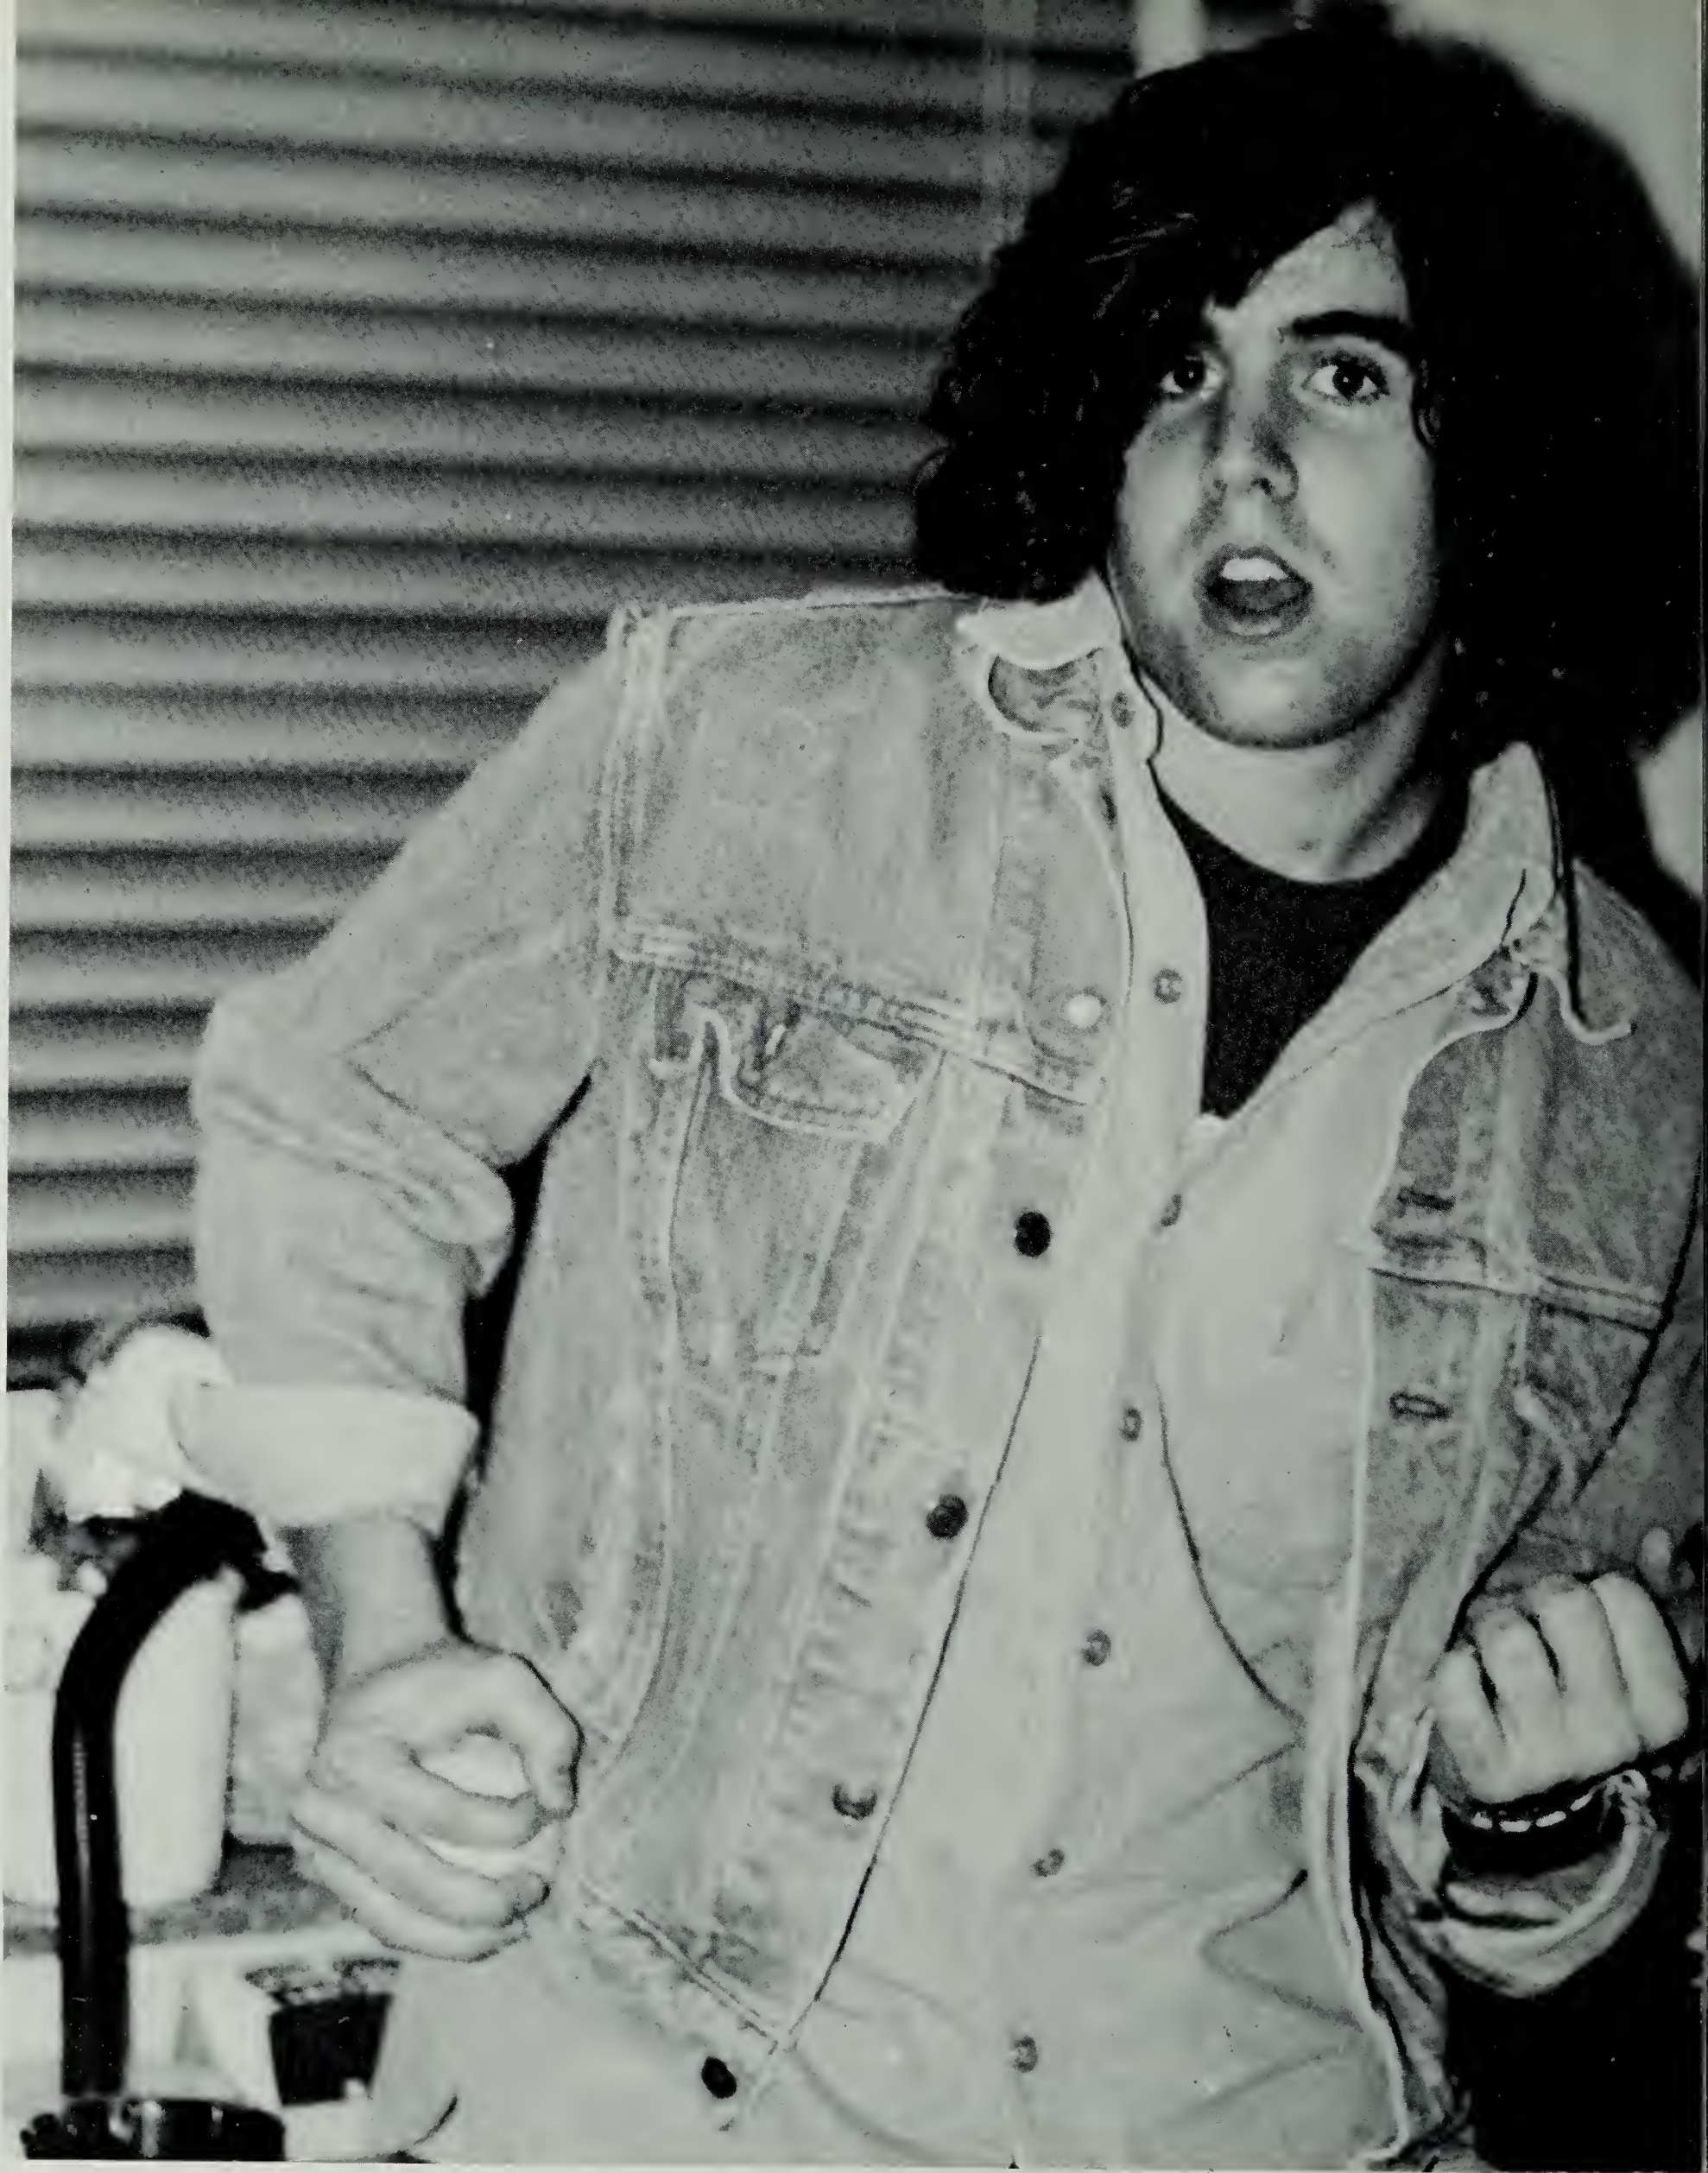

¡Vamos a la playa!

We drink to forget that we are too old to celebrate Halloween.

Chrisy Mazz — We got elegance if you ain't got elegance . . .

SOPHOMORES

SOPHOMORE: Taken from the Greeks — an ancient and venerable but nevertheless, wholly irrelevant race, the word means wise fool. Now another year down the road, the class of 1992 has become what everyone thought it would be: a group of scholarly, responsible, matured campus leaders who are often reduced to drunken incoherence if given even the slightest opportunity. Preceptorial is behind us now, and the sophomores who were condemned to Spellman for another year get to laugh maniacally at the Freshman who are often befuddled by the pointlessness of such a course. Older and wiser, we know the truth, it was an easier way to boost our grade point average.

There are a lot of questions on the minds of the sophomores. When are portfolios due? Has anyone written their Freshman Eval yet? Do you think we can get into Cook's without being carded? We have an athletic program? Where's the library?

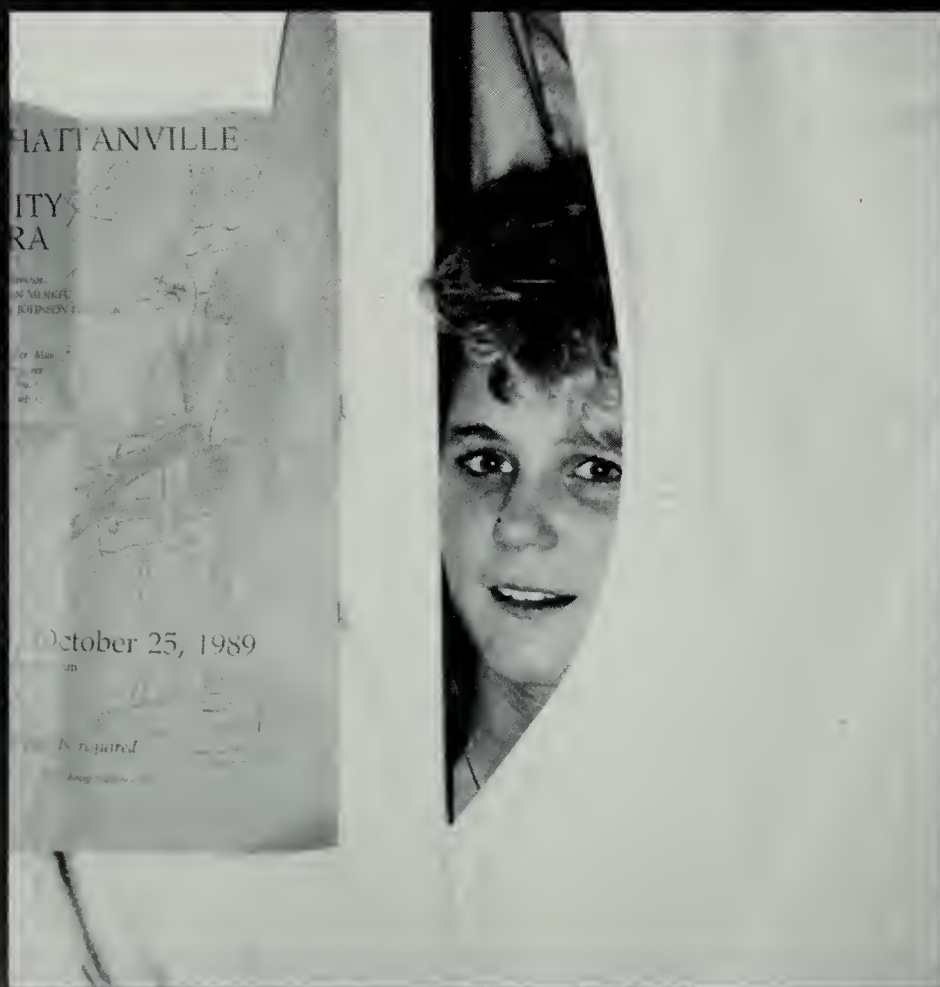

But the class of '92 will endure and think of the words of the immortal Dylan Thomas, "Do not go stumbling quietly into the dark night." — John L. Micek Katie and Sarina — With the new alcohol policy, suite life has become quite conducive to studying.

Toby — Let's start a band!!! I swear, I'm great . . . Let me play a few notes for you . . .

"Madness is rare in individuals — but in groups, parties, nations, and ages it is the rule." — Nietzsche.

Hi! I'm contest no. 3 . . .

Time to chill out.

Day — Yeah, so, what? So I threw my dead iguana out the window. So?

Squire — "A man's maturity consists in having found again the seriousness one had as a child, at play." — Nietzsche.

“Aloha Oi”, were the first words many freshmen heard, which marked the beginning of what would undoubtedly be an exceptional year, for an extraordinary class. The class of 1993 is a class with definite goals and joyous spirits. Our sense of pride is one that will assuredly set a new direction for our college in the coming years.

We are extremely grateful for the warm reception we have received thus far in our plans for enhancing the existing community. It has been a privilege to observe the diversity of our fellow classmates. Our participation in sports, music, theater, and the academics has already revitalized these areas both artistically and culturally.

Our sportsmanship along with our enthusiasm will encourage the new college theme: “Unification through Diversity.” We hope that our efforts will continue to benefit both the class itself and also encourage growth within our community.

Pssst! Pssst! Haven't we met somewhere before??

Peter Lax and friends — Students often study together, “See Spot Run.”

Marla and Mel — We will walk the road, this road is all we need — B-52s.

"Je pense, donc je suis," — Descartes.

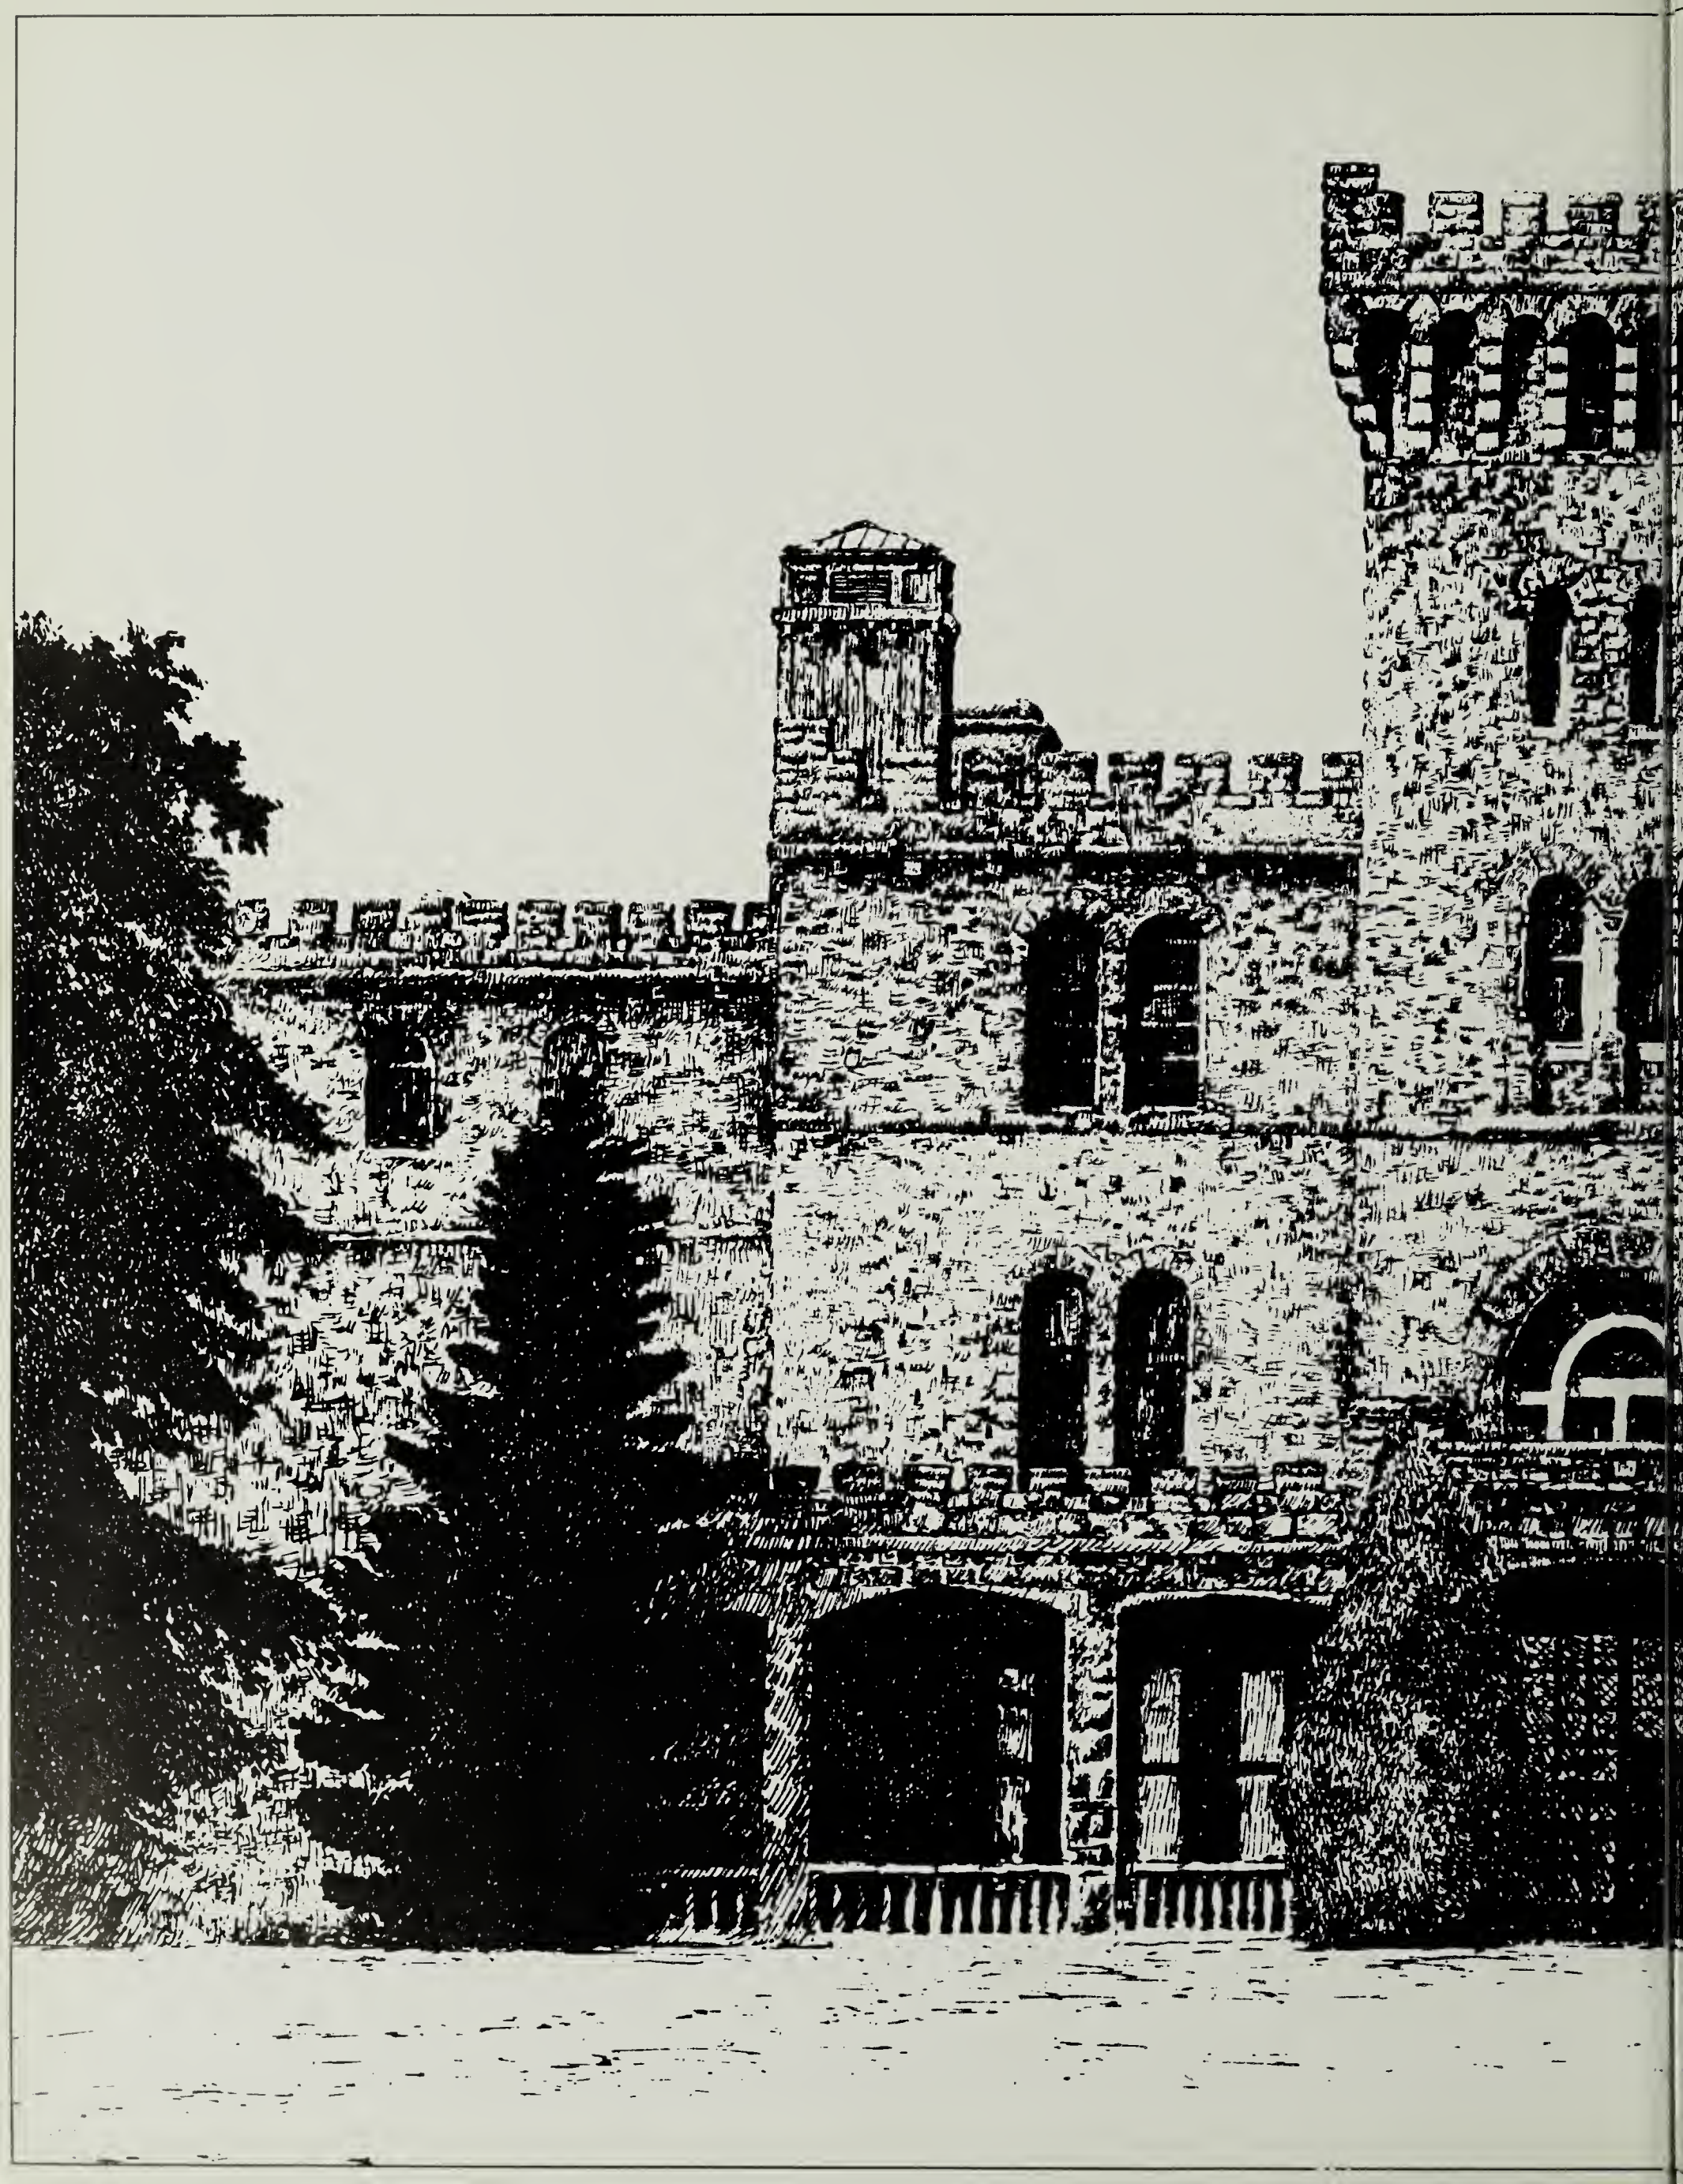

Doesn't take too much time for the freshmen to learn quad etiquette.
